Brown Faces, White Spaces: Navigating Culture and Climate as Minority and Majority Students

Description: Please join the USF College of Education Merit Scholars and Office of Institutional Diversity as we discuss what it feels like to be a brown face in a white space. How does it feel for minority students? For majority students? Do you even notice? This is definitely a FrankChat you want to attend! During this program we will also discuss demographics and what our current student body representation looks like at USF.

Details:

- Tuesday, November 30, 2021
- 4:30 p.m.
- San Damiano Hall – Motherhouse 3rd Floor

Registration: Is not required. This program is free and open to everyone. For anyone that cannot attend, please reach out to Amy Schroeder at aschroeder@stfrancis.edu for more information about the College of Education Merit Scholars Program.

If you have questions or would like to serve as a program facilitator at a FrankChat table, please email Allison Heard, Director of Institutional Diversity at ahheard@stfrancis.edu. A raffle for gift cards and other prizes will take place during the event.
